NAZI ARMY'S TRANSPORT TORN PIECES

ALLIED WARPLANES CAUGHT 3,000 MOTOR VEHICLES ON HIGHWAY

ATTEMPT SNEAKAWAY MAY HAVE BROUGHT RUIN TO ONE ENTIRE ARMY

PARIS Jan. 22—(AP)—The nineteenth tactical air force reported the destruction of more than 830 German motor vehicles today in attacks on columns fleeing from the Ardennes.

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Allied warplanes caught 3,000 German vehicles, the bulk of transport of an entire army, in an attempted sneakaway from the Ardennes salient through the Siegfried line to the Rhine, and tore them to pieces today in a ruinous daylong attack.

The planes attacked with bombs, rockets and machineguns.

The nazis had waited too long to run the gantlet down the snow drifted escape roads and were caught on two highways in concentrations so thick that the allied pilots said afterwards "We could not miss."

There was every indication that the ruin would be the greatest since the wounded wehrmacht fled for the Seine through the Falaise Gap. The destruction of equipment promised virtually to immobilize at least one of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's two mobile reserve units.

Allied air power intervened as the American Third army fought into the streets of Miltz, southern anchor of German defenses in Luxembourg, and as the U. S. First army stormed into the open from the forest belt protecting St. Vith. 2 1-2 miles away.

Two road jams, each containing roughly 1,500 vehicles and each containing some tanks, were spotted by pilots over the Ardennes at 9:30 a. m. These were kept under attack for 90 minutes with everything the planes could toss through the overcast, which hampered but did noth stop the slaughter.

A third group of vehicles, by no means comparable in size with the first two, was attacked southwest of Euskirchen.

A competent military authority at supreme headquarters said that the destruction visited on Rundstedt's armor fleeing the Ardennes salient probably represented the equipment of an entire army.

One force alone, of several air units attacking, reported before noon the destruction of 228 motor vehicles and the damaging of 75 others. The same unit reported knocking out 16 tanks and armored vehicles.

SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS URGING APPROVAL OF TREATY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—(AP)—Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., urged the Senate today to approve a United States-Mexico water treaty.

He declared the only alternatives to orderly development of the rivers involved are "hardship, misunderstanding and bitterness."

The treaty would vest in the U. S.-Mexican boundary commission the administration of its provisions governing the rights fo each country to the use of the waters of three rivers—the Rio Grande, Colorado and Tijuana.

A statement by Stettinius was read to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Under Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew as it opened a hearing on the treaty.

Stettinius said that in his opinion the treaty " is an outstanding example of the settlement of international problems by mutual understanding and friendly negotiation."

Would Give Protection

Stettinius said that the treaty would in the main protect existing uses of the Colorado in Mexico and would not only protect existing uses in the United States but also give opportunity for great expansion.

With respect to the lower Rio Grande he said, "a division of the waters was agreed upon which, when coupled with the building of international dams will protect existing uses and make possible considerable expansion in both countries."

L. M. Lawson, member of the U. S. section of the interntaional boundary commission, followed Grew on the stand to explain terms of the treaty.

Downey In Opposition

Senator Downey (D-Calif), opposing retification, interrupted Lawson to question whether or not Mexico would agree to having two water treaties one dealing with the Rio Grande and the other with the Colorado river.

"It is my opinion that Mexico would not," answered Lawson.

The Californian then asked if Mexico had not flatly stated that

SWEEPING "FULL EMPLOYMENT BILL" BEEN INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Senator James E. Murray of Montana laid the base for a potential new New Deal in the nation's domestic economy today by introducing a sweeping "full employment bill."

Three other Democratic senators joined him in sponsoring the legislation—Wagner of New York, Thomas. All four are rated close Wyoming. All four are rated close to the White House and their views frequently coincide with or even foreshadow those of the administration.

The bill would establish the right to a job as a federal policy, for all Americans abe to work and looking for work who have finished their schooling and who do not have full-time household responsibilities.

Government's Job.

It states that if full employment cannot be achieved otherwise, it is the federal governments responsibility "to provide such volume of federal investment and expenditure as may be needed" to produce the jobs.

To set the machinehy in motion, the president would transmit to congress each year a "national production and employment budget which would show not only the contemplated regular expenditures of the federal government but also the estimated expenditures of business, consumers, and state and local governments.

If the total estimated outgo was less than that adjudged necessary for full employment (President Roosevelt has estimated the postwar need for 60,000,000 jobs) there would be deemed to be a prospective deficit in the national budget.

Government Would Step In.

That's when the federal government would step in. The president would recommend "a general program for encouraging increased non-federal expenditures," and if he didn't consider that enough to cure the trouble, he could recommend a federal spending program, including construction of public works.

Republican Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio condemned the proposal in a speech last week, asserting that it eventually would lead to the assignment by the government of every man and woman to a job selected by the government.

That, he added, "is in contradiction of the whole American tradition" and is "exactly the same system pursued in Russia today."

MOVE STARTED TO STRIP WALLACE OF CONTROL FINANCES

OPPOSITION DEVELOPS TO NOMINATION WALLACE TO SUCCEED JONES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A move to strip Henry A. Wallace of control over federal loan and financing agencies as commerce secretary was started in the senate today by Finance Committee Chairman George (D-Ga.)

Evidencing the opposition to Wallace's nomination among Southern Democrats and Republicans, George offered legislation to re-establish the federal loan ageucy as a separate and independent arm of government.

He acted shortly after the senate received President Roosevelt's formal nomination of Wallace to succeed Jesse Jones, a post for which Jones said the former vice president is unsuited.

Mr. Roosevelt's rejection of a congressional request that Jones be retained as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiary agencies in the event of Wallace's appointment stirred bitter resentment on Capitol Hill.

Wallace Issues Statement.

As the storm gathered Wallace himself issued a statement in which he said he saw opportunity in his new post to raise the lot of the "common man" to a point where he will be no less prosperous in peace than in war.

Wallace called for "full and efficient employment "throughout the nation and for "opportunity for free enterprise." It said:

George's bill, which he introduced without floor comment, would set aside President Roosevelt's executive order of 1942 transferring the federal loan agency, the econstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiary agencies to the jurisdiction of the commerce department.

The order was issued when Jones was both commerce secretary and loan administrator.

The bill calls for the appointment by the president of a $12,000 administrator to head the re-established agency.

In his statement Wallace said:
has named me to a position providing for continuous activity in the public welfare.

"In the highly geared world of today and tomorrow, there must be full and efficient employment throughout the nation."

The senate received Wallace's nomination from the White House shortly after it convened at noon.

In what appeared to be a bid for southern democratic support when his nomination comes up for confirmation, Wallace summed up his new job as one designed to promote "a maximum of national employment by private business."

Wallace laid down a four-point program in which he declared that "opportunity for free enterprise among business men must be expanded, particularly among small business men."

Opposition to the President's appointment of Wallace to the multi-billion dollar lending post held by Jones was voiced by Republican senators, and southern members were hardly more guarded in expressing their criticism of the move.

The gist of their disagreement was that congress had given the loan administrator extraordinary authority simply on the understanding that those powers would be administered by Jones.

In the face of pleas from such men as Sunators Connally (D-Tex) and Bailey (D-NC) that Jones be

WIFE RECEIVES AWARD—Lt. Col. Sam H. Burchard, commanding officer Prisoner of War Camp, Camp Fannin, is pictured above presenting the Air Medal to Mrs. Mary F. Beale for her husband, First Lieutenant Elliott H. Beale, killed in action June 11, 1944, in the presence of Lt. Beale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Beale, Corsicana, Route One. The presentation was made Sunday, January 14, at the home of the officer's wife, 813 East Tenth Avenue. The War Department citation is as follows: "On 11 June 1944, First Lieutenant Beale, a liaison pilot, was ordered to take a field artillery observer on an air liaison mission from a small field located near * France. The tactical situation dictated that this particular field be used at the time, and despite the danger, the pilot tried to take off in order that the observer could accomplish an urgent assignment observing artillery fire. The airplane crashed on attempting to clear the field and both Lieutenant Beale and the observer were killed. The disregard for personal safety in his brave attempt to carry out a hazardous mission reflects great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

"March of Death" Survivor Enters American Lines

By SPENCER DAVIS

U. S. BOMBER WING HEADQUARTERS Northern Luzon, Jan. 22. (AP)—Haggard, footsore and hungry for American chow, the first survivors from the Bataan "death march" to join his invading fellow countrymen on Luzon rested today after hiding from Japanese and living on rice for nearly three years.

He was Corp. Gerald G. Wade of Lewiston, Idaho, an army air corps mechanic. He passed through the American lines at an undiscloed point and was brought here by plane.

"It's too good to be true," Wade declared, as he stamped his feet, in borrowed shoes, on the steel matting of the airstrip.

He was chalky faced from malnutrition. He looked 15 years older than his 25 years. But he was happy—and hungry.

Wade told him haw he and other prisoners who were surrendered to the Japanese at Bataan, on Southern Luzon, April 9, 1942, were mistreated and made to march 85 miles north to a prison camp.

"They laughed and jeered at us," he said. "Some of them bashed us on the heads with poles as they drove by in trucks.

"They reminded me of underdogs who finally had got the upper hand and didn't know how to act."

Wade said all he had to eat was a rice cake slipped into his hand by a Filipino boy. "The Japs," he added, "opened our C rations and ate the sugar and chocolate and tossed the rest away. They would not allow us to pick it up."

He did not disclose just how or when he finally escaped from the prison camp. But he said he had been evading the Japanese by hiding in the lowland fields and highland jungles for two years and nine monoths.

GERMANY'S POSITION BECOMES MORE GRIM HOURLY IN FACE OF STALIN'S ADVANCING RED ARMIES

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

Germany's position in the path of the Red avalanche hourly becomes more grim.

Muscovite forces have bludgened their way well into German industrial Silesia on the road to pround Breslau, important railway center and next to Berlin the greatest city in Prussia. They've stormed into East Prussia and captured Tannenberg, scene of Russia's greatest defeat in the last war and Valhalla of the Prussian militarism which the Allies have vowed to destroy as the curse of Europe. The Red war machine is driving the Hitlerites before it across the frozen palins of Poland towards the borders of the Reich.

How long can the Germans hold out against this terrific offensive—an onslaught unprecedented in history for weight and intensity? That certainly is a legitimate question, especially since even the Hitlerites are frank to admit that the European war has entered its decisive stage. The only point in doubt is how long the Reich can hold out.

In trying to find an answer we mustn't forget certain basic facts which we long have known about German purposes and the strategy they intended to employ in an effort to achieve those purposes. Emphatically we shouldn't jump to the conclusion—as many did when the Nazis began their great retreat from Normandy—that the war will be over in a few days.

The terrible Nazi defeat at Stalingrad early in 1943 was the turning point of the war. The Germans realized then that their chances of winning were mighty slim, and surely they knew their goose was cooked after they lost their grip on the Mediterranean through their disasters in Africa and Italy.

Hitler then let the world know what his strategy was. He would hang onto the occupied countries and bleed them so long as possi-

CRUSHING RED ARMY OFFENSIVES MOVING THROUGH POLAND

TOWN AFTER TOWN IS CAPTURED IN RELENTLESS ONWARD RUSH

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press War Editor.

The Red army's mammoth drive across Poland has battered to within 175 miles of Berlin, and 28 of strategic Poznan (Posen), last Bastion city before the eRich frontier in the Polish bulge into Germany, Premier Marshal Stalin announced today.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's tremendous push toppled Inowroclaw, a big highway center, and pushed on to Labiszyn for the closest approach to Berlin. Berlin summoned all Germans who can handle weapons.

Triple invasion armies meanwhile were spearing deeper into East Prussia above this wedge, and into German Silesia on the south.

Fall of Insterburg, East Prussia's second city, was announced by Stalin in an initial order of the day. Berlin said another Red ramy had approached within 45 miles of the Baltic in a drive to cut off the Junkers province, and that Russians in German Silesia were but 28 miles from the capital city, Breslau.

Marshal Stalin proclaimed the fall if Insterburg, rail hub 50 miles from the capital of Konigsberg, to the third White Russian army. Berlin said another great army driving into East Prussia from the south was only 80 miles away from this westward-striking jaw, and had reached an area 45 miles from the Baltic. Tannenberg, German military shrine city, had been swept up by this southern push.

AMERICAN ARMORED COLUMNS MOVE ON PHILIPPINE CAPITAL

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Armored American columns rolled through the smouldering ruins of Tarlac today to within 60 miles of Manila as all Allied offensives against the Japanese gathered speed.

U. S. Sixth army troops on Luzon island approached the halfway mark on the road to Manila at Tariac while Allied amphibious forces captured three more islands—two in the Philippines and one off Burma on the seaway to Rangoon and Singapore.

Reports from Tokyo and Honolulu indicated U. S. Third fleet forces were again smashing at Formosa. Land-based planes ranged beyond Formosa to hit a convoy off the China coast, struck at Wake island, the Kuriles, and the Bonins and volcanos some 700 miles south of Tokyo.

Japanese broadcasts said 550 carrier-borne aircraft raided oft-bombed Formosa and nearby Okinawa in the Ryukyu islands today for the second successive day.

Superforts reconnoitering the Osaka area of Japan proper brought back photos showing the great Kawasaki aircraft plant was knocked out in a single raid.

Tariac Is Burned

Tariac is the largest and most important town captured by Yank forces. The Japanese abandoned it after dousing buildings with gasoline and applying the torch.

"We captured an empty, smoldering shell," wrote Associated Press war correspondent Fred Hampson "The enemy systematically destroyed his equipment, supplies and much of the city with them -not an auspicious omen for

German Defense Plan Holds Key Length Of War

LONDON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The German defense plan now unfolding in the eastern Reich holds the key to whether the Russian tidal wave, engulfing Poland, Silesia and East Prussia with amazing speed, will end the war quickly.

There are indications the Nazis may have extricated the greater part of their 135 central front divisions in the east and pulled them back into the reich for a do or die stand before the Oder.

There has been no news of any large pockets of Hitler's troops left behind, nor big supply dumps overrun.

Moscow dispatches report a feeling in the Soviet capital that great winter battles will be fought on the snow-covered plains east of the Oder, where Hitler its said to have built an "last wall."

If this is the German strategy, then it is evidently aiming at an attempt to hold off Soviet forces until the end of March when spring turns that sector into slush and mud too formidable for even the mobile Red army.

Such a plan would envisage the surrender of East Prussia to establish a line running from Danzig, through Poznan to Breslau and along the Oder on south to Vienna.

If Russian armies are able to crack these German defense plans, and if Allied armies can smash the Siegfried line, the end will come as expressed aptly by a Moscow broadcast:

"When two titanic waves of steel and men roll from east and west toward Berlin, that will certainly be the end of the German army."

RUSSIANS CONTINUE ADVANCE INTO REICH ON WIDENING FRONT

STALIN'S TROOPS PRESS FORWARD THROUGH COLLAPSING NAZI DEFENSES

LONDON, Jan. 22—(AP)—Marshal Gregory Zhukov's armor and cavalry, pounding within 165 miles of Berlin, have captured Gniezno in Western Poland after a 38-mile advance in 24 hours. Marshal Joseph Stalin announced this tonight in this fourth order of the day.

Zhukov's bee-line drive from Warsaw toward Berlin blasted a path to within 28 miles of Pozman, last important Polish city before the Central German border.

Twin offensives in East Prussia overran in lightning fashion the two German bastions of Allenstein and Insterburg.

The most powerful military offensive of the war toppled stronghold after stronghold, as five Red armies raced on without check from East Prussia to Slovakia.

With first German defense lines broken in Silesia and two Soviet armies only 80 miles from a junction across East Prussia, the Moscow commentator Ilya Ehrenburg broadcast:

"Their Cities Are Burning."

"Their cities are burning now. We are not in potato country. We are at the iron and steel of Silesia."

Already, Zhukov's northern wing had swept past the Vistuala bend close to Bydgoszcz, Poland's seventh city, in a thrust which had half-sealed the Polish corridor from the south.

Marshal Gregory Zhukovs central offensive overran Labiszyn, 182 miles from Berlin.

Inowroclaw, Aleksandrow, and Argenau also were captured in Zhukov's drive on the main route from Warsaw to Berlin.

So rapidly were the Russians riding the westwatd victory crest that a 100 by 160 mile area of Northwestern Poland still in German hands last night had been whittled to a V-shaped buffer zone only about 50 miles wide in the center.

Only in Hungary were the Germans able to claim any success, and there they declared they had recaptured Szekesfehervar, 32 miles southwest of Budapest.

Insterburg, a city of 40,000, is only 50 miles from Konigsberg, capital of East Prussia, and is 37 miles inside the province.

Stalin announced the fall of the key railway center in his 18th order of the day in six days, and praised 40 generals for taking part in the capture.

Berlin called for a defense of the Reich by all Germans who can handle a weapon. Marshal Stalin's five great armies smashing along an 800-mile front from the Baltic to Eudapest, bore down on Berlin from 195 miles at two places and rolled over many German towns and villages in Silesia 28 miles from Breslau, Adolf Hitler's ninth city.

Only a square of Northwestern Polish territory about 100 miles wide and 160 miles long, remained as a buffer between Stalin's massed forces and the length of the German frontier.

MARCH OF DIMES

January, the month of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday, marks the annual fund-raising appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It is no mere coincidence that this month which gives the President the highest number of birthdays he has yet had also will witness more events and more activity in connection with the March of Dimes than has ever before been the case.

Wartime conditions of living, particularly the crowded conditions existing in defense plant centers and army training centers, have been conducive to the spread of infantile paralysis. Proof of this is seen in the nation's health records for 1944 when the second worst epidemic of infantile paralysis in the country's history occurred.

North Carolina was especially hard hit, but in all parts of the nation the disease struck without warning. Many of the victims were wives, sons and daughters of servicemen. And on that account personnel of the armed forces are planning full participation in the nation-wide campaign to help combat the disease.

We cannot and must not do less here at home. David Ralston, permanent chairman for the March of Dimes, has started machinery in motion for Corsicana and Navarro county's full participation with the appointment of Paul Hudgins as chairman for the county in the drive. One dime of every two raised here will remain in the county to aid any who may fall victims to the disease here.

The fact that our President, after falling a victim to the disease, has been able to perform the longest and greatest record of public service of any of the nation's illustrious chief executives only because of the timely and skilled medical aid he received, is proof of the great economic and humanitarian value of infantile paralysis work.

Because few have the financial means to afford adequate medical treatment for their children or for themselves when they become victims to the disease, the work of combatting the blight of infantile paralysis must always, to a large extent, depend upon public charity. Therefore, remember when you give your dime to the cause during the campaign that you are aiding some boy or girl or older person to live a happy and a normal life who otherwise might have been a hopeless cripple or who might not have been able without your charity and that of your neighbors to live at all.

WORK OR FIGHT

There is no bluff about the attitude of Congress and the American public in regard to the use of American man-power for war purposes .Present plans indicate that able-bodied men from 18 to 45 years of age will be expected to engage either in direct military service or in some job essential to the war. There will doubtless be proper exceptions made for those who can be used most advantageously in special lines of war work, or who have genuine disabilities making them unfit for active military service. But choice or rejection will no longer be so casual as it has often been heretofore. Uncle Sam is going to war, to save himself from great danger and shame, to preserve his honor and save his country from disaster.

There are still a few Americans, here and there, either unable to see and understand the peril, or with alien ties binding them to sympathy with our enemies. This situation is lamentable and dangerous, for them and for this nation. Sheep and goats can be separated. Men must be dealt with wisely and sympathetically when they are clearly honest and of good intent, but firmly in cases of deception and hostility.

GERMANS AND AMERICANS

It is a tragic fact that ever since the United States entered the war, our people on the whole have underrated the Germans. Millions of us seem to have taken it for granted that whenever and wherever we took the field against the Hitler gang, it would vanish into thin air, or throw itself on our mercy.

But there is a breed of Germans now at large from whom no such weakness need be expected. It is the brood that was first spawned in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and 1871, when Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor," began shaping a future in which German power would step upon the neck of Europe—and after that, the world.

The first great move in that program during the present century came in 1914. America stopped that move, and the Germans lost the war, but not the purpose.

The second step, far more powerful and vengeful, is the one in which Germany has sought to crush and absorb Europe and America, and almost succeeded in half of the operation. This time Americans were more wide-awake, yet still slow to action in the face of the biggest crisis this world has ever faced. At last there is unanimity among the free and enlightened nations, but even yet we are all in danger again through our eternal habit of unpreparedness and procrastination.

STEADY WAGES

Most Americans will probably support the President in his announced intention to hold the wage line for the present and the immediate future, at least, in spite of pleas from the big labor unions. It is this procedure, he maintains, along with holding the price lines, which "has prevented, and is still preventing, inflationary developments."

The facts seem to uphold the President's position. In the course of this great war, so far, there has been no such serious inflation as developed in the last war. According to the President's figures, the cost of living has risen only 25 to 30 per cent since 1939, and only two per cent since orders to "hold the line" were issued a year ago last April. Anyone who compares present prices in general with those of the last war is likely to be surprised by the comparative moderation in the present war period.

It is necessary, however, to hold the lines firmly. Experience has shown how disastrous it is to relax the economic controls and let prices and wages go on a rampage.

This is a matter requiring moderation alike in prices and wages, and a steady hand in government. There must be no leak in the dike of fiscal policy.

THE HARD-BOILED EGG

STATEMENT ISSUED BY MRS. L. S. KEEN ON AUSTIN MEETING

The following self-explanatory statement was issued Friday by Mrs. L. S. Keen of Corsicana, a member of the committee for educational freedom from the Sixth Texas senatorial district, relative to press dispatches from Austin Thursday concerning Austin meetings and conferences:

"The AP report in yesterday's issue of the Daily Sun was misleading and incomplete and needs clarifying.

"In the first place, it was a very orderly group of women composed of ex-students and largely of mothers of children of university age and those who have attended in recent years and who have the interests of the University of Texas at heart.

"The Women's Committee for Educational Freedom met Thursday morning and drew up three resolutions. The meeting recessed and proceeded to the capitol individually for informal meetings with the senators from their districts, during which the senators were merely asked their views on the issue of Dr. Rainey's reinstatement. No attempt at coeclon cr "demanding" took place. After these private interviews the group assembled in the governor's public reception room and requested an interview with the governor, during which the chairman, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, former secretary of state, read the resolutions. An informal period of questions and answers took place subsequently to the reading of the resolutions between the governor and the representatives of the committee composed of women from each senatorial district.

"At the afternoon session plans were made for a continuation of the work for the betterment of the University and to keep in touch with each move that affects its present and future."

REV. R. Q. KENNAUGH PRINCIPAL SPEAKER FOR CHS GRADUATES

LIKENED RECORDED HISTORY TO "UP-AND-DOWN" ROOLER-COASTER RIDE

Terming the history of civilized man the "convolutions of civilization," the Rev. Robert Q. Kennaugh, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, likened the recorded history of the past centuries to the "up and down" ride that one might take on a Coney Island roller-coaster, in his address at the midterm commencement exercises of the Corsicana Senior High school held in the high school auditorium Thursday night.

The rector reminded seven members of the graduation class, clad in the traditional caps and gowns (an eighth member was absent because in the armed forces) and other listeners that the world is reaching the bottom of possibly its greatest roller-coaster ride, going downward with a fast and furious "zoom" and that youth with courage and the other good qualities individuals can possess are needed to dig their fingers into the raw earth to start the world back on the road to another period of advancement.

"The Courageous Heart."

The title and the central theme of the rector's address was "The Courageous Heart." He reminded the class that the important thing for them to grasp was not that they had just finished something, but that they had just started to do something. He termed their graduation a step upward in the process of living. He reminded those who have graduated that it is their duty to show the new graduates what life means.

Continuing, the speaker said, "The world presents many problems. The kind of world we live in today is based on the acts of those who have lived before us as well as upon the acts of those who live now. Some look for a perfect world. They call it Utopia and other names."

He then pointed out that according to this theory, the world was progressively worse the further bck we go into past history, and the world grows progressively better as centuries pass.

Series of Curves.

"But history does not support such a theory," he said. "The history of the world is more like a series of curves, not a history of steady growth. It resembles a Coney Island roller-coaster. We get to the top of a curve only to go down. The coasting down seems more pleasurable than the slower ride upward.

"This is easy to explain because of the journey upward everyone, particularly at the start, has to work in the bare earth to make life grow and progress. On this upward journey the second generation lives with less difficulty than the first. The third generation has things going its way with living requiring much less effort and affording many more pleasures. The fourth generation begins to live on the fat of the land and is not considerate of the resources it has at its disposal. This fourth generation searches for the things that please the senses. It ceases to develop civilization.

Goes Down Again.

"As a nation gets to the top of the world in its roller-coaster ride, things get easier for it. Then—zoom! It goes down again on the roller-coaster. All our nations of the past have taken that same pathway. A few people in the nation see the realities and again start the nation on its long drag up the pathway of civilization."

He reminded the class that they were graduating by commencing. "It is now time for you to realize that there is more to living than the opening of a book and reading theories. By your lives and activities you should bring something of permanence to the world, something of lasting worth."

He pointed out that all the world is composed of units, that education is only a unit in civilization and that all life's parts are units. "Because you are a small class doesn't mean a thing," he added. "You are the ones on whom the world's curviture now depends. You are the ones who will have to help in determining relations between employers and employees and many other vital questions."

Man of Courage.

The rector recounted the traditionary exploits of the Roman hero, Horatio. He characterized Horatio as a man of courage, ability and ready spirit rather than a foolhardy person. "Horation realized that while he might have to give up his life, in doing so he would gain the opportunity for the community of his epople to live."

Continuing, he said, "There will be pleasures and there will also be hurts that will come your way. Take that into consideration. Realize that you are not here just to enjoy the prettiness of life. Contribute all you have in your heart."

W. H. Norwood, superintendent of schools, extended greetings to the graduating class. He described how man first learned to mark the passing of time and the measure time while doing a task. He reminded the class that the sand in the hour glass for them had run low and that they had reached the end of a period of living. He also reminded that the school had come to be their home. And he expressed the hope that they would not break these home ties but always remember the school kindly.

Diplomas Presented.

W. P. McCammon, president of the board of education, presented dipolmas to Ben Acock, David Early Denbow, Jr., H. Albert Frey, Robert L. Lewis, O. L. Slaughter, Jr., Mary Magdeline Dycus and Pansy Lorene Watts. He also called the name of Owen Smith and stated that this member of the class was in the armed forces and unable to be present to receive his diploma.

McCammon praised Freys' violin rendition of "Souvenir," with Mrs. Eugenia Story as accompenist. He also praised the address of Slaughter, "Looking Ahead," which follows:

"LOOKING AHEAD."

"Today, after 12 years of free education in this wonderful land of America, we, the midterm graduating class of 1945, stand as free boys and girls in a war-torn world—a world filled with hatred, jealousy, and destruction. This freedom that we enjoy today did not come so casually as we are prone to accept it, but generation after generation sacrificed personal ambition, endured hardships, and shed blood to preserve it.

"We have accepted this freedom as a heritage from our forefathers, but soon we will be called upon to defend it. Are we ready to do our part in this fight? To take our rightful place in this world we must be physically, mentally, and spiritually prepared.

"To meet the physical hardships of this fight we must have tough, enduring bodies—bodies that will be capable of tasks placed upon us. Man sometimes weakens because he grows weary. Therefore, we must make ourselves invincible in body. Man sometimes wavers because although his ideals are true, his physical limitations betray him. Let us who live in a country where there are still food, medicine, fresh air and sunlight, make the best of these things.

"Only by having physical fitness will be be able to defend our spiritual freedom. The countries Hitler has occupied have no freedom whatsoever. They are told how, when and what to play; they are told what to sing and how to worship. Some may not grasp the meaning of the word spiritual. The dictionary says the word spiritual pertains to the higher nature of man, and we know without spiritual development a human being is merely a beast without hope of the future. He is without patriotism. He is without honor. He is the complete tool of a stronger force. In order to avoid being such a tool we must develop an unconquerable spirit.

"Last of all, we come to the mental necessity. We must be able to think. Free thinking is a part of our heritage. If it were not for the thoughts of our forefathers, we would not have a land like America in which to live. We must help preserve this freedom our forefathers have given to us, and we must prepare to fight for it and accept certain responsibilties. The responsibilities are a great challenge to youth, but with the blood of pioneers in our veins, the ideals of democracy in our hearts, and the determination to stand for God and the right in our lives, we, the class of 1945, accept it, realizing that we may have to die for freedom that others may live in freedom."

The benediction and invocation were given by the Rev. W. O. Harmon, pastor of the First Christian church. R. A. Armistead, high school principal, acted as chairman.

REPRESENTATIVES OF NAVARRO COUNTY RED CROSS ATTENDED CAMP AND HOSPITAL SESSION

Mrs. R. B. Mitchell, executive secretary; Dr. William T. Shell, Jr., chairman of First Aid and Life Saving; W. B. Levy, 1945 War Fund chairman, and assistants, Mrs. A. B. Horn and R. D. Mabry of Kerens; Mrs. Robert Daniel of Kerens and Mrs. J. W. Matlock of Frost, volunteer workers, and Mrs. A. E. Haslam, Home Service Chairman, of the Navarro Chapter, American Red Cross, were in Temple on Thursday to attend a meeting of the Central Texas Camp and Hospital Council, which was held at Red Cross Headquarters at McCloskey General Hospital, with Mrs. Jeff Jackson of Lampasas, chairman, presiding.

Each chapter was allowed ten representatives, but two others from the Navarro chapter, Mesdames Tom Fortson of Rice and Hallie Steely, were unable to attend the meeting on account of illness.

Registration at 9 o'clock was followed with an invocation by Chaplain Thos. A. Rockett and an address of welcome by Brig. Gen. J. A. Bethea, manager of McCloskey General Hospital, after which a business session was held and needs of hospitals and camps of Central Texas were discussed by the three hundred representatives in attendance

Luncheon Served

At 12:30 o'clock, a well-balanced meal was served in Mess Hall No. 3, after which the visitors were taken on tours of the Hospital kitchen and chapel.

At 1.30 p.m., Hospital inmates entertained the visitors with a program, featuring the 442nd SAF Dance Band under the direction of CWO Durbin, Prc. Danny Bauer and Corp. Bill Punchi, vocalists, Pvt. Jimmie Palmer, pianist, and Sgt. Dick Broderick, impersonator, with Sgt. Ben Dunn as master of ceremonies.

Business Session

At the afternoon business session, chapter reports were made and two counties, Harris and Travis, were welcomed into the Council.

Mrs. John Lee Smith of Austin gave a report on the beautification of grounds at McCloskey Hospital. She stated that the project had been completed, and that there was no further need for shrubbery to be sent to the Hospital.

Representatives of the Gray Ladies of Temple gave a report on the distriubtion of Christmas presents, and stated that each hospitalized serviceman received at least three gifts

It was decided that chapter reports will not be read at future meetings of the Council, but will be filed with the secretary for reference.

Request No Food

Announcement was made and stressed that no food is to be sent to the Hospital unless requested by the proper authorities.

Various counties have been assigned quotas of home-made cookies, and Navarro county's first quota of thirty dozen cookies was taken to the Hospital on Thursday. The Wesleyan Guild of the First Methodist church furnished twenty-four dozen and the women of Frost completed the quota with six dozen cookies. Navarro county's quota of cookies is to be turned in to the local chapter to ship to the Hospital each Wednesday. These cookies are being used, it was announced at the meeting, for patients' parties.

A need for playing cards was stressed as patients are reported to be begging for them. Secondhand decks of cards will be acceptable, it was announced.

Navarro Chapter Quotas Filled

Navarro Chapter's report revealed that between November 16th and December 14th, the following supplies have been provided, in response to calls from the Camp and Hospital Council of Central Texas.

Two hundred and twenty-five Christmas packages, containing five useful articles each, were sent to San Francisco, Calif., to be used by servicemen on the high seas during the holiday seasons.

A donation of $50 cash was sent to McCloskey Hospital to be applied on two public address systems.

Two pairs of boxing gloves were sent to Waco Army Air Field. The gloves were donated by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Swofford of Rice, who have lost a son in service.

Two hundred Christmas gifts were sent to Camp Hood and Camp Hood Station Hospital.

Christmas Gifts

Five hundred and ten Christmas gifts and decorations for ten Christmas trees were sent to McCloskey General Hospital.

Twenty birthday gifts, forty Victrola records, forty sheets of music and four current books were sent to Blackland Army Air Field.

Twenty-eight pounds of candy, thirteen pounds of fruit cake, twelve games and nine books went to Mcloskey General Hospital, between December 14th and January 18th.

Other supplies sent during the latter part of December and first two weeks of January were twenty-four pounds of pecans, which went to Waco Army Air Field, and four small throw rugs, and twenty-five coat hangers that were sent to Waco Army Air Field.

Three cookie jars and thirty dozen cookies went to McCloskey General Hospital.

Ninety dish towels, fifty dish cloths, twelve forks, twelve teaspoons, one butter knife, one paring knife, twenty-five birthday cards (for servicemen's use in remembering birthdays of relatives) and six vases were sent to Camp Hood Station Hospital.

Six teaspoons, one butcher knife, one paring knife, three tablespoons and six forks were sent to Camp Hood.

Mrs. Mitchell reports that potted plants and flowers may be requested for McCloskey Hospital as an early date.

The Navarro County Chapter has a standing quota of ten birthday presents, twenty Victrola records and twenty sheets of music per month, Mrs. Mitchell stated.

Mrs. Mitchell wishes to thank all organizations and individuals who were so liberal in supplying gifts, which resulted in an over-subscribed quota for Navarro chapter. Mrs. Mitchell has taken the responsibility for the recent quotas in the absence of Mrs. Allen Edens, Jr., chairman of the Navarro Camp and Hospital Committee, who has been ill at the home of her parents in Alexandria, La.

DONNELL DISCUSSES BILL TAXING MONEY DEPOSITED IN BANK

Money on deposit in Texas banks will be rendered at only 40 per cent of the average net value of each account for each twelve month's period isntead of at the full value now required by law if a bill recently introduced into the State Legislature by J. R. Donnell, Navarro county state representative, becomes law.

In discussing the merits of his bill Saturday Donnell pointed out tht it provides for impeachment of county tax assessors who fail to have owners of property swear to their renditions. This is in addition to the present penalty providing that a fine of $50 shall be levied against each assessor who fails to comply with this provision of the law.

Permits Deduction

While Donnell's bill provides for a 50 per cent rendition of bank deposits, it permits a deduction of 10 per cent for outstanding checks. Thus the bill in reality provides for only a 40 per cent rendition, Donnell explained.

Donnell also believes his bill is fairer than the present law because, as above stated, it provides for rendition of the tax payer's average net balance in the bank throughout the year, rather than the rendering of the amount of money he has on deposit each January 1.

Law Not Enforced

Donnell recognizes that the present rendition law as it relates to bank deposits is not enforced, and the intent of his bill is to impose a lighter tax burden, but also to provide for rigid enforcement.

Continuing he said: The intent of my bill is mainly to provide funds to replace to cities, counties and school their losses from exempting the $3,000 assessment values on homes as is now done under the state tax system.

"Since there is more than twice as much money on deposit in the banks for rendition as is reducted on the homes, a 40 per cent rendition of the bank deposits would almost, if not entirely, offset the loss to the cities, counties and schools. The constitutional amendment for exemption on homes up to $3,000 in value from all taxes would not include the part due on bonds now outstanding against property in cities, counties and districts, but would exempt from future bond issues," he explained.

Sick And Convalescent

Tech. Sgt. Leonard Elkins, U. S. Army, underwent an operation at the McCloskey General Hospital at Temple Wednesday morning, and is doing all right, according to information received Friday morning. He is the son of Mrs. Nola Elkins of Corsicana and was seriously wounded in France, July 14, 1944.

DFC Received By Major C. J. Adams, Fortress Pilot

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England—Pictured above after receiving the Distinguished Flying Cross is Major Clarence J. Adams, 29, of Port Neches and Corsicana. Texas, squadron officer in the 490th bomb group a B-17 Flying Fortress unit of the Eighth Air Force, commanded by Colonel Frank P. Bostrom of Bangor, Me.

Major Adams received the award while serving as lead pilot on heavy bombardment attacks against targets in France and Germany. Brest, France and Berlin, Germany were two of his most successful missions. The citation read: "Major Adams demonstrated outstanding airmanship while commanding his formations in successful attacks against Brest, France and Berlin, Germany, despite the dangers of adverse weather on one mission and heavy anti-aircraft fire on each occasion."

The airman has flown over twenty combat misions. Among them have been several attacks on chemical plants at Ludwigshaven, Marshalling Yards at Hamburg and oil refineries at Misburg.

Besides the Distinguished Flying Cross, Major Adams holds the air medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Adams of 109 Marion street, Port Neches, and his wife, Sarah, lives at 502 West Fourth Avenue Corsicana. Prior to entering the army air forces in January, 1942, he owned the Lacks Auto Supply Store in Port Neches.

The 490th Bomb. group is a unit of the Third Bombardment Division, the Division cited by the President for its historic England-Africa shuttle bombing of Messerschmitt aircraft plants at Regensburg, Germany.

LIEUT. ALLEN TELLS OF BLOODY FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONT

Lieut. Ben Dave (Stookie) Allen, U. S. Army, combat engineers, now fighting in Germany, gives a vivid and startling description of the bitter battle now raging on the western front in a letter to his mother, Mrs. G. H. Allen, 1025 West Second avenue.

A graduate of the Corsicana high school and the University of Texas, Lieut. Allen is one of the nation's top-flight artists and previous to entering the service had been employed by metropolitan newspapers and major feature syndicates.

Going is Tough.

"The going is much tougher these days," the officer writes. "Mines, mines, mines—the country is lousy with them—we are losing plenty of men—me and two others are the last of the original bunch that hit the beach on D-Day. The rest have either been killed or wounded. Three times I have almost got it but have always been a lucky guy. Yesterday my best pal had both legs blown off by a damn mine."

Lieut. Allen pulls no punches in his letter in expressing his opinion of some persons whom he terms as "chisslers," and of the able-bodied men being deferred. He also takes to task those responsible for giving commissions to incompetent men.

"I only hope that some of their own sons will have to serve under those alleged officers," he observes, adding "they won't have a chance of getting out alive if they ever get in a tough spot."

Front Lines for All.

"If I had it my way I would make every guy in America do just one hour of duty up here in the BLOOD and MUD, combat style—just one hour," is the wish expressed by the officer. "Until a guy has served that way he will never know what it is all about—he will never know the score—will never know how danger can punish the human nervous system—how much guts it takes to creep down a street of empty buildings and knowing all the time that they are not as empty as they look—expecting every minute to hear the crack of a karbiner or the burp of a machine gun—the last damn sound on earth—they'll never know how much guts it takes to move forward, a yard, a foot, an inch."

Bleeds to Death.

"They don't know how a mine kills a guy from the bottom up—mangles him so that he bleeds to death before anything can be done for him", the officer points out.

"Until they serve in this MUD and BLOOD they will never know the crime they commit when they strike for a few more measly dollars and hold up supplies," Lieut. Allen observes, adding "what a damnable thing it is to award contracts for bribes or let friends out of the service because of friendship."

Lieut. Allen is high in his praise of the Corsicana men in the service, saying: "Corsicana has a wonderful bunch of men in the service, I am proud to say. I read something about some one from there doing something swell every time I pick up the Stars and Stripes."

Lt. John Bonner, Fighter Pilot, Is Awarded Air Medal

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, England—First Lieutenant John Bonner, Jr., P-51 Mustand pilot from Ozona, Texas is shown being congratulated by Lieutenant Colonel Everett W. The son of Mrs. Effie Bonner, 305 South Fifteenth street, Corsicana, Texas, the lieutenant is a member of the high-scoring 355th Figther Group. The 22-year-old flyer was gradutaed from Corsicana high school in 1939 and attended Texas A. and M. University before entering the Air Corps in January, 1942.

His wife Mrs. Mary M. Bonner, lives in Ozona.

The 355th Fighter Group has destroyed 303 enemy planes in the air and 289 on the ground for a total of 592 victories. The group is the third highest scoring fighter unit in the Eighth Air Force.

COMMISSIONERS TO LEASE BUILDINGS AT COUNTY FARM

Navarro county commissioners court has agreed to lease two buildings located at the county farm to the committee of farmers or to the U. S. Army for use at the branch prisoner of war camp being established immediately east of the city limits. This action was taken at a special meeting of the court Saturday morning with the proviso that M. E. Lake, who has leased the county farm, be satisfied with the arrangement.

John J. Bryant and a number of other members of the farmers labor committee sponsoring the prisoner of war camp appeared before the court Saturday morning.

The court also discussed the construction of a ladies rest room in the basement of the courthouse. There are twenty-five women employed in the offices and departments in the basement.

The bond of E. H. Campbell, newly named justice of the peace at Blooming Grove, was approved.

County Judge L. L. Powell was authorized to advertise for bids for county and school depository the next tw years—bids to be opened February 14, 1945.

Camp Explained

Bryant explained to the commissioners the camp site on the old Powell pike, how the army would provide tents, some buildings, etc. He said that the mess, recreation and lavatory buildings must be provided by the sponsoring committee The city has allowed the use of a building from the CCC camp as a mess hall and requested the two buildings from the county farm. He pointed out that the extension service had allowed $3,000 for repairs and that the road from Highway 31 to the POW camp would be graveled.

Bryant pointed out the camp would start with 150 prisoners and would be increased to 400, with farmers having priority on the labor.

Farmers will be required to provide transportation.

Labor Contracted For

The farm labor committee chairman said that he had contracted for all the labor and that the First Ntional Bank was furnishing the money without interest so that the farmers can avoid the customary red tape by going to the county agent, giving a check for the estimated labor etv. If the labor is not used, adjustments will be made, he said.

The two houses voted from the county farm will remain the property of Navarro county.

M. E. Lake, holder of the lease of the county farm and buildings, was quoted as being willing to release the two buildings for $25 and members of the committee indicated they would contact him. The court passed an order authorizing the county judge to execute such contract as desired when above-enumerated conditions are met.

Local Red Cross Officials Attend Meeting in Waco

Representatives of Navarro Chapter, American Red Cross, who were in Waco on Wednesday to attend a meeting of the Red Cross chapter clinic at the Roosevelt Hotel where Wallie Levy, 1945 War Fund Chairman, Mrs. A. B. Horn and R. D. Mabry of Kerens, assistant War Fund chairmen, Mrs. R. B. Mitchell, executive secretary, Miss Jessie Mae Hilliard, Home Service Chairman, Mrs. Claiborne Simpson, case worker and Mrs. Robert Daniel of Kerens, volunteer case worker.

Houston Crump, veteran Red Cross worker who has recently returned from England, was principal speaker at the meeting which opened at 10 a. m. and continued until 4 p. m. with three sectional meetings.

One of the most important questions facing people in America today is that of keeping faith with the boys who are giving their lives for a future peace, the speaker emphasized. "After the last war America stood at the crossroads of destiny and went the wrong way. We are there again, will we again break faith?" he asked.

Work In England.

He told of the fine work now being done by the Red Cross in England from the time they leave the states on a transport through their installation at a military post and during all the time they are stationed there.

He told of the 250 Red Cross service clubs that had been established in England to provide comfort, relaxation, recreation, rest and amusement. They were more than hotels he stated, they were homes away from home. He paid tribute to the 14,000 English women who assisted the Red Cross and worked under all kinds of hardships.

He concluded with an appeal that the most any American can give is the least he ought to give.

Clinic Divided.

The chapter clinic was divided into three sectons: war fund and public information, which was presided over by Milton C. Tainter, regional director of the midwestern area, and Tom Wagner, field representative. Home service, under the direction of Miss Esther Roetiger of the St. Louis office; and nutrition, directed by Miss Florence Lytle from the St. Louis office. Better means of publicity and organizataion were taken up in round table discussion and material from the area office which would aid the chapter workers was given to them. Preparations are being made for the war fund drive by the war fund committee.

Home service is handling an ever increasing number of service men and veterans and their dependents. The nutrition group is concerned today witht he job of making people keep up their interest in food and its value after the war, for nutrition is as valuable in peace as it is in war, it was brought out.

LOCAL BAPTIST TO ATTEND MEETING DALLAS TUESDAY

Baptist leaders of Texas will meet in Dallas Tuesday to study means of advancing the campaign among churches of their districts for the Truett Memorial Building at Baylor University Hospital.

Rev. Jared I. Cartlidge, pastor of the First Baptist church here, plans to attend that meeting. He is the moderator of the Corsicana Baptist Association. There are 110 moderators of associations slated to attend along with other leaders and officials, all county campaign chairmen and the seventeen district missionaries in Texas.

Baptists outside of Dallas plan to raise $1,200,000 toward erection of the Truett Memorial Building and new buildings for the Baylor College of Dentistry and the University School of Nursing. Dallas Baptists assisted by local business and industry are raising a matching $1,200,000 for the project and lack only a small sum of completing their goal. Baptists outside of Dallas have most of their quota yet to secure.

The new building in memory of the world-famous Baptist leader, the late Dr. George W. Truett, will double the present capacity of the hospital and help relieve its critically overcrowded condition.

Rev. D. P. Cagle of Corsicana, missionary of the Corsicana association, also plans to attend the meeting Tuesday.

WALLACE

kept on at least in his capacity as head of vast federal financing agencies, the President called for and received the later's bitter but full acquiescence.

"I must accede to your decision," said Jones, in a letter emphasizing that "I can not agree" that Wallace, until Saturday the vice president, would be a good man for the job.

Mr. Roosevevlt had written Jones that "Henry Wallace deserves almost any service which he believes he can satisfactorily perform."

Jones interpreted this as meaning Mr. Roosevelt wanted to hand out a cabinet post "as a reward for his support of you in the campaign."

O'Dniel's Comment

Senator O'Danied (D-Tex) said it "has the appearance of a New Deal political payoff appointment, dictated by Sidney Hillman and his communistic comrades who are running the country."

The Jones-Roosevelt letters, dated Jan. 20, inauguration day, were released by the secretary last night. He refused to discuss them further, the White House had nothing to say and Wallace was not reachable for comment.

Jones, as did several senators who backed him, spoke disparagingly of Wallace's abilities to handle the multi-billion dollar agencies now grouped within the Commerce Department.

The background of the 56-year old Wallace is predominantly agricultural. He served previously as Secretary of Agriculture and was known for his scientific experiments in the farm field, notably with corn. He has published farm publications and written otherwise, besides traveling for Mr. Roosevelt in South America, Asia and elsewhere.

Intends Make Record

Wallace is known to have told friends last week that he knew some people regarded him as a poor administrator but that if he got the commerce assignments, he intended to make a record for efficiency.

Business-like methods rather than theories were what he had in mind, these people said.

His friends, who include the CIO Political Action Committee, believe that in a top spot like the Commerce Department the ex-vice president can build toward the political campaign of 1948. They would like to see him nominated for president and figure that as secretary he could win the support of small business elements.

Senate May Fight

Customarily, the senate does not interfere a great deal with the President's choices for his cabinet. But as the full import of Wallace's knockout victory aver Jones became apparent, plans for a full-fledged senate fight on Wallace's confirmation began to take shape.

That Senator Connally would be in the forefront of the opposition appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

He called at the White House only last Wednesday to urge the President to take the RFC and other financial agencies out from under the Commerce Department with Jones as administrator before bringing Wallace into the cabinet.

Obviously dismayed by the President's action, Connally termed the resignation of Jones, his fellow Texan, "very unfortunate."

Republicans like Senator Brewster of Maine used these same words, but many withheld a commitment as to their own course pending a caucus to decid the party's position.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the senate Republican steering committee, said he did not consider Wallace "qualified" to administer the multi-billion-dollar lending and financing program.

He predicted a fight in the senate of historic proportions.

Doesn't Know Diplomatic Language

"Jesse Jones doesn't know the language of diplomacy," McCarran said. "His language is that of a hard-fisted American business man. He talks straight from the shoulder."

In turning down the thought of an ambassadorship, the 70-year-old Texas financier and newspaper publisher said "I can best be helpful in the line of my life's work—business and finance—but I seek no job."

SPORTSMEN MUST TAKE ACTION TO SAVE DISAPPEARING QUAIL; FEW BIRDS FOUND THIS SEASON

Many Navarro counyt quail hunters were disappointed at finding so few birds during the short six-weeks season which closed January 16 R. W. George of Blooming Grove, one of the county's live-wire sportsmen and a keen observer of nature and quail habits, has an interesting explanation for the gradual disappearance of this game bird and a rational theory for increasing the quail population.

In an interview recently George stated: "Strange as it may seem, the laying, setting and rearing conditions for quail during 1944 were favorable. There was plenty of water. Grain crops, field seeds and insects were adequate. But evidently there were adverse conditions, insidious in their nature, cutweighing the conditions coming up in the auspicious category.

Practical Viewpoint

"Let us look at the situation, then, from a practical viewpoint. Quail live on farms and in pastures. Walking in his shoes and wearing the farmer's glasses, we find cows eating low the native grass; we find sheep nipping off pasture weeds as rapidly as they appear. We find ravines cleared by the farmer's axe, thereby robbing Mr. and Mrs. Bobwhite of a place needed for speedly retreat in time of danger.

"Continuing our walk in the farmer's boots, we come to the cornfield. It is small. The orchard is smaller, usually with 20 trees or less. The cottonfield is swept clean by the mechanical tractor with plows. At the water tank we find no trees no vines, no underbrush for the old birds and their young, no route by which they can walk unmolested to the watering place.

"Where Is The Remedy?"

"This is getting the fodder down to where the calves can reach it. Now that we have looked the quail situation over carefully from different angles the question arises: Where is the remedy? How may the hnter, in his ingenious contriving, improve a situation for the seriousness of which he is guilty?

"Some sportsmen are convinced that killing out chicken snakes which eat quail eggs would help. Others equally interested in quail want to see the crows blasted from the skies. Still others want all house cats killed ,as they feed at every opportunity on quail. The enumerations of other sportsmen include the fox, the road runner which will kill 90 per cent of the young quail which cannot fly from its reach; and the armadillo which plows along fence rows, an animal that is rapidly increasing in numbers.

Sportsman Must Take Precaution.

"The sportsman cannot afford to sit idly by and watch the few remaining quail pass out of the picture. He can discourage trapping; he can discourage killing of birds on the ground; and he can laugh out of countenance the stupid hunter who follows up a covey until he has slaughtered the last bird. Those of us who have farms can plant peas and maize and corn, sharing these crops with the quail. We can plant our native plum trees on waste land, letting them spread to make fine winter homes for birds. We can let our fence rows grow up in weeds. We can permit Nature to provide vines and shrubbery along the banks of the little creeks, places for the birds to hide under when the blue-darter hawk gets after them. He can kill the cur dogs whenever he sees any of them breaking up quail nests; and he can keep his bird dog confined at home during the quail nesting time.

Game Preserve Helpful

Surveying off of territory and designating it as a game preserve, as practiced in some Texas counties, is helpful in restoring the quail population. As a last resort sportsmen may petition the state legislature for a closed season on quail throughout the year, asking that the closed season be extended for two, three or five years. Yet this closed period would not be worth anything unless it carries with it provision for a number of game wardens to be stationed in the various communities. This closed season alternative should not be resorted to if there is any other way out for maintaining the quail population, for a bird or game situation least governed by law is best governed."

IN MEMORY OF MY HUSBAND (JOE ROSS)

Now that God has taken the
the best pal I have ever had
The one who shared my sorrows and helped to make me glad.
You were so faithful toward me and home will never be the same
We will always cherish your memories and often call your name.
Now that your chain is vacant your voice I will hear no more
Darling, how I'll miss you
Till we meet on that beautiful
shore.
You took the sweetest father and left our children sad
For them life is so lonesome
The best Pal we've ever had.
Since you left we'll Pal together and do the best we can
O God you took our darling
Help us to understand.
Darling, now that you're in heaven.
It is nearer than even before
With God's help I'll meet you on that bright and beautiful shore.

Information From Navarro County Rationing Board

Retailers, wholesalers and primary distributors of lard, shortening and cooking and salad oils are prohibited from making transfers of these food products until midnight Sunday, W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro county rationing biard, stated Saturday.

Several investigators from the district OPA office, Dallas, were in town Monday checking automobile transfers made by both dealers and individuals, W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro rationing board, stated. Wright explained that a thorough check was being made to determine if any used motor vehicles had been sold above the ceiling price. If any ceiling price violations are found charges will likely be filed against the persons involved in the violations, Wright said.

Canned grapefruit juice and blended citrus juice have been returned to point rationing in order to provide equitable distribution of avalable civilian stocks which will be approximately two-thirds of last year's citrus juice supply, W. A. Wright, chairman of the Navarro County Rationing board, said Friday.

Grapefruit juice and orange-grapefruit juice blended have point values ranging from 10 to 40, according to the size of the can, Wright said. No ration points are required to purchase orange juice.

Military requirements of citrus juices have increased, Wright explained. To obtain sufficient supplies the War Food Administration froze sales of citrus juices at canning level for an indefinite period until military requrements are filled. Both WFA's action and OPA's action is coincidental in order to protect military requrements and civilian distribution, Wright said.

According to unofficial nformation OPA has ordered lard, shortennig and salad and cooking oils returned to the ration list Monday and all retail stocks are frozen until that date when the foods affected will cost housewves two red points a pound.

H. D. Council and PTA Heard Talk By Health Head

"The spread of venereal disease is caused by our negligence", Dr. Will Miller, acting director of the Corsicana-Navarro County Health Unit, stated at a joint meeting of Parent-Teacher Associations and Home Demonstration Clubs of Navarro County at the regular meeting of the Home Demonstration Council on Saturday afternoon at Kinsloe House.

Dr. Miller further stated that venereal disease causes 100,000 deaths per year, and that it is up to the citizenship to control it through such organizations as the Health Unit. Militarily speaking, if dieases were at war, venereal disease would surely win out.

The State Department of Health showed films on the control of venereal disease, and the way in which the public may assist in controlling it.

Gordon Climer, Federal disease investigator attached to the Health Unit, Mrs. W. K. Steele, vice-chairman of the Health Unit Advisory Board, and Mrs. J. W. McAdams, who is serving as a member of the Health Unit Staff, made short talks.

Following the joint meeting, a short business session of the Home Demonstration Clubs was held with seven clubs repersented and thirteen members present.

Baptist Campaign Is Reported Big Success

Hundreds of unenlisted Baptists were added to the Sunday School rolls within the Corsicana Baptist association during the three-months-enlistment campaign just closing. This was announced at the associational meeting held at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The inside enlargement campaign held in the Corsicana district was an experiment and was the first of its kind sponsored in the Southern Baptist convention. The local campaign was such a success that it is being inaugurated in all of the Southern Baptist states. Dr. William P. Phillips of Nashville, connected with the Southern Baptist Sunday School organization, was here Sunday for the meetings and addressed the assemblage. A fine response and good reports were made.

Rev. M. O. Cheek of Waco, District Fourteen missionary, also attended the Sunday meeting here.

LIQUOR DEALERS' CHECK REJECTION IS ENDORSED HERE

Action of the executive committee of the Baylor University board of trustees in rejecting a $25,000 check from Dallas liquor dealers to the Baylor-in-Dallas campaign for improvements at Baylor hospital was unanimously approved by the congregation of the First Baptist church in conference Sunday night. This action was taken after the pastor, Rev. Jared I. Cartlidge, had brought the matter to the attention of the congregation after a men's class of the Sunday School had passed such a resolution. The matter was turned over to the board of deacons to work out an amount to be contributed not only to Baylor hospital but to the Tidwell Memorial Bible Building at Baylor in Waco and bring back to the church conference. A substantial contribution as indicated by those who discussed the matter.

Action Pleases Pastor

In discussing the action of the Baylor executive commitee, the pastor said that he praised God that it happened.

Large crowds attended both services Sunday when the pastor brought the mesages. There were 446 in Sunday School.

The WMS met Monday at 4 p. m.

The associational workers conference was held at the church Monday with a luncheon at noon. Dr. Julian Atwood of Dallas was one of the scheduled speakers.

The visitation program is scheduled Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. with the customary services Wednesday evening—teachers meetings, prayer service and choir practice and rehearsal.

March of Dimes

The pastor made an announcement Sunday on the infantile paralysis campaign "March of Dimes," urging the congregation to contribute to the worthy cause through the church and also at designated places in the business district.

An associational inside enlargement report and check-up was held at the church Sunday at 2:30 p. m. when reports on the three-month campaign to enlist all Bapsists in Sunday School work were received. Most of the churches in the Corsicana association reported decided increases and pleasing results. A number of visiting ministers and workers were here for the meeting.

Two united with the church by letter and one by statement as a candidate for baptism Sunday.

Special music was brought Sunday at the morning and evening hours by the choir, directed by S. K. Brietz.

WATER TREATY

she would not agree to separate the two problems. Lawson replied that she had not said so "in so many words," but that by her acts one could conclude the opinion he had expressed.

Approximately 70 per cent of the water that flows down the lower Rio Grande, Lawson stated, originates in Mexico, and 30 per cent in the United States.

"So the State of Texas by this treaty would obtain about 8000,000 acre feet of water more than is contributed by the United States," Downey added.

Lawson replied that "is true, but there is more to it than that," in that without a treaty authorizing dams on the international stream the United States can not fully utilize all the water that it does contribute.

Senator Hayden (D-Ariz) insisted that the problems of the Colorado river and the Rio Grande can not be segregated. The original boulder dam bill received the support of the Texas delegation "on the assurance that Texas would benefit," he said.

His explanation of this was: since the Boulder Dam would make more water available in the Colorado to Mexico, Texas "understood" that it would be allowed to draw greater quantities for its own use from the Rio Grande.

The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow with Lawson still testifying.

Scores of witnesses, including a large delegation of Californians opposing the pact, were on hand representing eight Western States affected by the treaty under which waters of the Rio Grande, Tia Juana and Colorado Rivers would be divided between the two countries.

The States involved, besides California, are Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Colorado and Wyoming. Al but California and Navada have endorsed officially the treaty. An unofficial group of water-users from all but Mexico and Texas recently met in Las Vegas, Nev., in opposition to the agreement.

The first treaty to come up for consideration in the 79th Congress, its provisions would authorize the construction of three dams on the Rio Grande to impound flood waters for use on irrigated farmlands on both sides of the river.

Comes From Mexico

Much of the flow in the lower reaches of the river, on which Texas Rio Grande Valley citrus and vegetable growers depend, comes from tributaries in Mexico. They would be assured of an adequate water supply under the treaty.

Mexico, on the other hand, would be guaranteed 1,500,000 acre feet per year of the Colorado river's flow originating in the United States.

Californians contend that this would deprive them of water on which they depend for the development of the Southern part of their state.

They are scheduled to testify Thursday and Friday, after State Department officials, including Lawrence M. Lawson, American member of the international boundary commission, wil lhave discussed the treaty in detail. Western States groups endorsing the treaty will testify after the Californians.

ANNOUNCE SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS NAVARRO COUNTY

During December, 1944, social security payments totaling $2,639 went to 108 Navarro county beneficiaries, according to data released recently by the Federal Security Agency and the Social Security Board, Waco, Texas.

As of December 31, the Waco office of the board reports an increase of $2,181 per month over June 30, and 129 more beneficiaries in December than in June for the district. The number of persons receiving payments under the old-age survivors insurance program increased from 1,235 in June, to 1,304 in December. The amounts paid per month rose from 18,324 to $20,505. Since the figures given represent monthly benefits only, the annual rate will exceed $250,000, since lump-sum payments are made when there is no one eligible to collect monthly benefits in death cases, George W. Hoke, manager of the Waco office, announced.

ble. Finally he would retire inside his own fortified frontiers of Germany and fight it out.

Now the Germans have abandoned their Vistula line and are racing for their frontier defenses. German strategy has called for this withdrawal to the eastern frontier of the Reich for a stand along the defenses of the Oder river.

Whether the Nazis will be able to make a strong stand on the Oder remains to be seen, but that's their intention and we must be prepared for hard fighting. They will be battling on their own threshold. Everything will be at stake. We must expect them to make a desperate and even suicidal stand.

If home-front morale collapses and brings unexpectedly early surrender, that will be our good fortune.
